How Would You Like Your Feeling?

Ezo Sunal

24 Pages / Size: 24 x 24 cm / Published: June 2026 / Publisher: Masalperest

When Nova discovers that her favorite ice cream shop has been replaced by a mysterious new one, she is greeted with an unexpected question. Instead of choosing a flavor, children are invited to choose a feeling: a scoop of anger, a scoop of sadness, a scoop of fear, or perhaps a little happiness. As Nova and her friends return to the shop throughout the summer, they begin to notice something remarkable: by the time they finish their ice cream, the feelings they arrived with have started to soften.

How Would You Like Your Feeling? introduces young readers to emotional awareness through a delightful ice-cream metaphor, showing that feelings are easier to understand when we notice them, name them, and give them time to pass.

Kingdom of Light

Nurdan Bağrıaçık – Deniz Oduncu

28 Pages / Size: 21 x 24 cm / Published: June 2026 / Publisher: Uçan Fil

A lonely red lighthouse stands among the waves, proudly believing that its beam is responsible for lighting the world. Night after night, it guides ships safely through the darkness and dreams of illuminating everything around it. But when a fierce storm blocks its light, the lighthouse begins to question its place in the vast universe. An encounter with a wise seagull leads it to a remarkable discovery: There is a much greater source of light above: the Sun.

Kingdom of Light invites young readers to explore the wonders of nature, astronomy, and perspective. Through the lighthouse's journey from pride to understanding, the story celebrates humility, curiosity, self-discovery, and our connection to the natural world.

A Pocketful of Mistakes

Esat Zorkirişçi – Eslem Yaşar

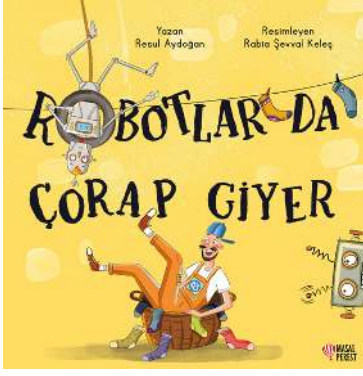

32 Pages / Size: 23 x 23 cm / Published: September 2026 / Publisher: Masalperest

This is a story about mistakes, and the many ways we can learn to face them.

Whenever our little narrator makes a mistake, she tucks it into her pocket and sets off in search of a four-leaf clover, remembering Mum's words that every mistake is a chance to begin again. Along the way, she discovers that no two mistakes are quite alike: some smell like burnt cake, some flow like rivers from another person's eyes, while others grow as high as mountains. With playful metaphors drawn from familiar childhood experiences, A Pocketful of Mistakes gently explores the many ways children can face their mistakes by taking responsibility, asking for help, apologizing, letting go, and trying again, while reassuring them that mistakes are not something to fear or hide, but valuable opportunities to learn and grow.

Robots Wear Socks Too

Resul Aydoğan – Rabia Şevval Keleş

34 Pages / Size: 24 x 24 cm / Published: September 2026 / Publisher: Masalperest

Game designer Res and robot designer Pes invite young readers into their workshop to meet four playful robots, each with a different emotion, favourite shape and special way of moving. To bring Muni, Buri, Bubu and Medi to life, children must observe their expressions and buttons, match each robot with the right pair of socks, and join in by jumping, balancing, spinning and counting. The adventure ends with the workshop's biggest robot yet, and an open-ended activity inviting readers to design its socks and decide how it should move. Blending storytelling with interactive matching games and creative play, Robots Wear Socks Too supports emotional recognition, shape awareness, attention and motor skills.

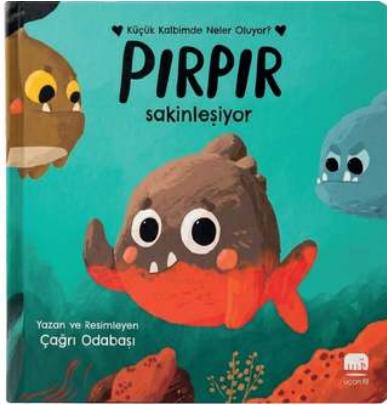

You Can Play In Space Too

Resul Aydoğan – Öznur Sönmez

32 Pages / Size: 24 x 24 cm / Published: 2024 / Publisher: Masalperest

Readers may remember Res from the first book in the series, You Can Play in Space Too, in which Res and the adorable dog Bella lead them on an interactive journey through space filled with planets, colours, numbers, hidden objects and movement games. Blending storytelling with observation, matching and physical play, both books turn reading into an active learning experience.

Pırpır Calms Down –

What's Happening in My Little Heart Series

Çağrı Odabaşı

20 Pages / Size: 21 x 21 cm / Published: August 2026 / Publisher: Uçan Fil

Deep in the river forest lives Pırpır, a tiny, speedy piranha whose anger can flare up when things don't go his way. Whether he is asked to share his favorite toy, wait his turn at the playground, or eat something other than what he expected, his big reactions sometimes hurt those around him. With the gentle guidance of his parents, Pırpır discovers that feeling angry is perfectly normal, the important thing is learning how to manage it. Through deep breathing, empathy, and taking a moment to understand what lies behind his feelings, he gradually learns to respond more calmly and consider others.

Pırpır Learns to Calm Down is a warm and relatable board book that introduces young children to emotional regulation, self-awareness, and empathy through everyday situations they can easily recognize.

Leo The Postman in My Brain

Ömer Faruk Tavşanlı – Özge Alphan

32 Pages / Size: 23 x 23 cm / Published: June 2026 / Publisher: Masalperest

Leo is a tiny postman who lives inside the brain, sorting, delivering, and organizing every new piece of information. When Ali travels to Amsterdam for the first time, every new word, place, discovery and experience fills him with excitement, and gives Leo plenty of work to do. Hidden inside Ali's brain, Leo's job is to sort every new piece of information into the right place. As Ali explores Amsterdam, visits museums, and discovers unfamiliar names and ideas, Leo carefully organizes each new memory, helping readers see what happens inside the brain every time we learn something new.

Leo The Postman in My Brain introduces children to the fascinating processes of learning, remembering, and forgetting. By turning abstract cognitive concepts into an accessible adventure, the book encourages curiosity about how the brain works while gently reminding young readers that every new discovery finds its place, and that revisiting what we learn helps us remember it even better.

A Question Set Out on a Journey

Mine Pöge – Deniz Oduncu

32 Pages / Size: 21 x 24 cm / Published: September 2026 / Publisher: Uçan Fil

When Rüya slips on her magical shoes, she embarks on a dreamlike journey through a whispering forest, a shimmering sea, a golden desert, and even the age of dinosaurs, asking everyone she meets the same question: Where does magic live? Each answer leads her to discover magic in a different form, from a tiny hope growing into a mighty tree to the traces we leave behind.

Blending poetic, rhyming language with playful sound effects, A Question Set Out on a Journey celebrates children's boundless curiosity and shows how a single question can open the way to wonder, imagination, and self-discovery.

Grandpa's Big Secret

Merve Edeer – Gökçe Odabaşı

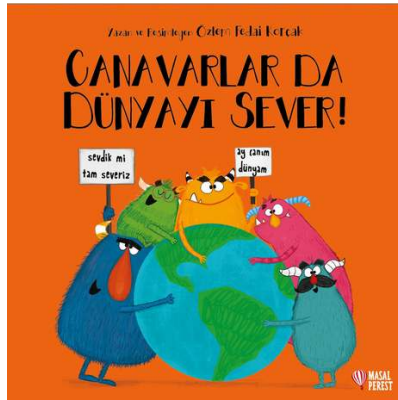

28 Pages / Size: 23 x 23 cm / Published: July 2026 / Publisher: Masalperest

When their parents leave for an overnight business trip, a young child is over the moon to spend the night with his lively ninety-year-old grandpa. After a fun-filled day of experiments, Grandpa wakes the child with an unexpected confession: ever since getting lost in a forest as a boy, he has sometimes been afraid of the dark, and of the monsters that might be hiding in it. Determined to help the grandfather who has always supported him, the child turns fear into laughter through the power of imagination. Together, they draw a terrifying monster, then transform it into a hilarious creature with heart-covered underpants, toilet paper, and a bird perched on its head.

Reversing the familiar dynamic of stories about emotions, Grandpa's Big Secret shows a child helping a ninety-year-old adult acknowledge, express, and make peace with his fear. It is a tender story about intergenerational bonds, emotional openness, and finding light beyond the darkness.

Monsters Love the Earth Too!

Özlem Fedai Korçak

32 Pages / Size: 23 x 23 cm / Published: 2026 / Publisher: Masalperest

The monsters are protesting again, and they have something important to say: they belong to this world just as much as we do. Earth is their home, and they care for it with love, attention, and responsibility. Through their playful and endearing voices, young readers discover that protecting nature begins with the choices we make every day. The monsters use water carefully and never waste a drop. They keep the seas clean, pick up litter whenever they see it, sort their waste, recycle, and make compost from food scraps. They grow their own fruits and vegetables, avoid unnecessary energy use, and care for street animals, too. The story gently shows children that looking after the planet is not an overwhelming task, but a natural part of loving the place we live in. These funny, kind and lovable monsters model eco-conscious behavior in a way that feels inviting rather than instructive.

EARLY READERS

Meerkat Kozi's Adventure Day

Elif Bülbül – Sezen Şengül

36 Pages / Size: 21 x 24 cm / Published: August 2026 / Publisher: Okuyan Koala

Childhood often becomes unforgettable not through grand surprises, but through simple moments: preparing breakfast together, discovering a pine cone in the woods, or taking a short family walk. Meerkat Kozi's Adventure Day is a warm early reader that celebrates this simple yet profound truth. Kozi loves school, where he plays, learns, and has fun with his friends, but even in the happiest moments, he sometimes misses his parents. One day, this longing inspires a special family “adventure day”, not in some faraway land, but at home and in the nearby park, where they cook breakfast, clear the table, ride bicycles, listen to birds, observe a worm, and investigate a pine cone beneath a tree.

With warmth and gentle humour, the story shows young readers that the greatest discoveries are often hidden in the smallest details. Encouraging curiosity, a love of nature, shared learning, and responsibility, Meerkat Kozi's Adventure Day is ultimately a hopeful reminder that ordinary moments spent with the people we love can become our most treasured memories.

Kumbu: The Singing Whale

Gülçay Konçe

40 Pages / Size: 31,5 x 22 cm / Published: September 2026 / Publisher: Okuyan Koala

Deep beneath the sea, marine creatures encounter Kumbu, a mysterious sperm whale who continues to swim to his own rhythm despite the waste and murky waters around him. Drawn to his serenity and enchanting song, they follow him and unwittingly set a remarkable transformation in motion. Written and illustrated by Gülçay Konçe, Kumbu: The Singing Whale is a hopeful picture book about hearing our inner voice amid the noise of the outside world and discovering how personal change can transform our surroundings. Through a playful exploration of pollution and consumption, it shows that even discarded objects can be given new life. Konçe's distinctive watercolour-and-pencil illustrations enrich the story with handwritten thoughts and intricate details, while a QR code featuring a song composed and performed by the author extends this celebration of music, imagination, and environmental awareness beyond the page.

The Thing That Holds Us Together

Gülçay Konçe

40 Pages / Size: 19 x 24 cm / Published: 2022 / Publisher: Okuyan Koala

Tiny in stature, the Mahomi people live together with the other members of their tribe in a world filled with love and happiness. And what they enjoy most of all is HUGGING! Deeply connected to nature and keenly aware of their surroundings, the Mahomis one day come across a curious object carried to them by the wind. They have never seen anything like it before: two pieces of wood joined by a spring, with strange holes in the middle. What could this mysterious object be? A seat for listening to beautiful stories? A springboard? Or perhaps a puppet character? At last, one of the Mahomis cries out with a wonderfully imaginative idea: “I’ve got it! This is THE THING THAT HOLDS US TOGETHER!”

This inventive story about how the Mahomis transform a puzzling object into something new -something that brings them together and draws them even closer-invites children and adults alike to reflect on love, connection, and the importance of being mindful of the world around us.

Göbeklitepe: A Journey to the Past with Gogo the Fox Heval Bozbay – Ayça Sarıönder

52 Pages / Size: 23 x 26 cm / Published: 2026 / Publisher: Uçan Fil

For nearly thirty years, excavations at Göbeklitepe have uncovered fascinating clues about the lives, beliefs, imagination, and social world of the people who once gathered there. But many mysteries still remain unsolved. Why was Göbeklitepe built? How were its giant stone pillars transported and erected without wheels or domesticated animals?

Guided by Gogo the Fox, a curious and charming companion inspired by the fox carvings found at the site, young readers travel deep into the past to explore towering T-shaped pillars, animal reliefs, mysterious symbols, ancient ceremonies, and the work of archaeologists uncovering humanity's hidden story.

This richly illustrated non-fiction book combines archaeology, history, storytelling, and science in an engaging and accessible way. Instructive illustrations, a glossary, interactive activities, and puzzles encourage children to think, explore, and discover the ancient world for themselves. Perfect for curious minds, young explorers, and future archaeologists, Göbeklitepe: A Journey to the Past with Gogo the Fox invites readers to step into one of humanity's greatest mysteries, and into the very beginnings of civilization itself.

Ms Jingle Jangle H and the Extraordinary Inventions: Life Gets Better When It Gets Messy

Mine Pöge– Şebnem Aydın

80 Pages / Size: 13,5 x 21 cm / Published: 2026 / Publisher: Uçan Fil

Meet the delightfully eccentric Ms. Jingle Jangle H, founder of the Institute for Ridiculous Research and Remarkably Impossible Things. Her mind is sharp as scissors, yet she doesn't use her cleverness to cut things apart. Whenever a curious problem appears, before anyone even knows what to call it, she arrives with unusual inventions, unexpected questions, and wonderfully unconventional solutions. Across four whimsical chapters, she investigates hurt feelings, challenges a nationwide ban on mistakes, explores the Museum of Mistakes, and helps people see themselves and one another in entirely new ways. Blending humor, imagination, and emotional insight, each chapter presents a curious case with a meaningful lesson at its heart. Through eccentric characters, playful inventions, and delightfully absurd situations, Ms. Jingle Jangle H shows young readers that mistakes are part of learning, feelings deserve attention, and life is often far more interesting when we let go of perfection.
