AUTHOR

Karaca is a fourth-year medical student whose life spirals out of control when tragedy strikes at her estranged brother's boxing match. Drawn into a web of grief, betrayal, and dangerous secrets, she must choose between silence and the perilous pursuit of truth. Across four gripping volumes, Karaca confronts hidden enemies, fractured loyalties, and the suffocating weight of memory. As each revelation pushes her closer to the edge, the line between justice and vengeance begins to blur, culminating in a powerful finale where the cost of truth may demand everything. A dark and emotional saga of survival, identity, and reckoning.

BLACK SWAN SERIES

BEYZA AKSOY

At first glance, Nil Han appears as unremarkable as her short, quiet name. Yet beneath her fragile exterior lies a dangerous secret: since childhood, her emotions have held power over the sky itself. When grief takes hold, storms rise; when her heart fractures, the weather follows. Longing to be seen and understood, Nil is drawn into a consuming love with Pamir Yelkiran, the boy she secretly names "Kalp-kiran" (Heartbreaker). When their paths finally converge, their connection sets off a chain of tragic, irreversible consequences that will shape the course of her life.

In the third book of the series, Siyah Kuğu 3: Göğü Kafes, Nil awakens in an institute alongside other patients undergoing treatment, having erased or lost the final years of her life. Determined to treat everything she once loved—especially the all-consuming passion she chased blindly since childhood—as if it never existed, she now confronts the aftermath with a scalpel in her hand and deep emotional wounds in her soul. As Nil struggles to redraw the boundaries of her past, she learns that the most painful moment of a wound is not when it opens, but when it begins to heal.

A phenomenon of recent years, Siyah Kuğu marks its tenth anniversary with Göğü Kafes, a powerful continuation that blends romance, tragedy, and magical realism into an intense meditation on love, loss, memory, and the burden of extraordinary gifts.

When the Sparrows Cry

Beyza Aksoy

Talya Vasilyev is only nineteen, raised in a home where loyalty outweighs love and expectations suffocate affection. Burdened by a stutter her father calls a disgrace, she chooses silence as her shield—at school, at dinner, in every fragile space between words. Trapped in lies and raised to believe love was never meant for her, she grows up thinking her heart is cursed. But when a chocolate-brown-eyed boy looks past her silence and into her soul, she learns that love is not destruction—it is healing.

The Condition of Love

Büşra Yılmaz

It begins like an ordinary love story, but with every page, hearts are broken. Defne and Mert's relationship is tested by a series of misfortunes that tie their lives to four others, each haunted by a love from the past. As their paths cross, the six stories intertwine, revealing long-buried secrets and unexpected connections. In the end, they all discover that love, in its many forms—lost, unspoken, rekindled, and new—has been right in front of them all along.

4N1K 1&2

Büşra Yılmaz

4N1K is the witty and heartwarming story of five inseparable friends; four boys and one girl. Yaprak grew up as an ordinary kid, but when she's with her four wild and loyal friends, she's anything but ordinary. Her world revolves around her dimpled hero Ali; Oğuz, the lunatic whose only obsession is photo booths and flirting; and Sinan, a quirky sock-fetishist whose grades never quite add up to 100. For twelve years, these boys have filled her life with laughter, loyalty, and color. With them by her side, Yaprak neither believes in nor needs love. But everything changes on her birthday, when a mysterious package arrives and turns her world upside down.

THE MAN WHO WHISPERED TO DEATH

BÜŞRA YILMAZ

Born from the ashes of pain, The Man Who Whispered to Death introduces two fractured souls brought together by fate. He is a brilliant con artist who has learned to survive by burning; living, loving, and destroying himself in the process. She is a girl who has never truly lived, estranged from life itself, unable even to master death. Like a butterfly lost inside a beehive and a fish afraid of water, they are drawn to one another as if designed to be each other's cure. But what happens when a butterfly, meant to live for only a day, dares to fall in love with tomorrow?

THE MAN WHO WHISPERED TO DEATH

In the second book, The Matchstick Graveyard, death itself becomes uncertain. When Yosun cannot find the body of the man she was told is dead, she refuses to believe in his absence. Convinced that what is lost can still be found, she begins digging into the past with the help of the enigmatic Mr K. Yet the deeper she goes, the clearer it becomes that everything she once heard was a lie, and every lie she believed was incomplete. As reality fractures, Yosun confronts a haunting truth: the reason she struggles to live does not exist in the outside world, but inside her own mind.

The trilogy reaches its devastating conclusion in A Twisted Fairy Tale. After surviving a deadly fire and escaping both the police and relentless enemies, Yosun and Özgür take refuge in a remote mountain house with Mr K and Anıl. But the past does not stay buried. Secrets move through the house like restless ghosts, and the group soon finds themselves at the center of an event that will shake not only their lives, but the entire country. As past and present losses collide, each character is dragged into their own personal hell. In this final descent, survival is no longer guaranteed, and the question remains: will anyone make it out intact?

Dark, poetic, and psychologically intense, this trilogy blends love, deception, trauma, and survival into a haunting modern fairy tale where fire both destroys and reveals, and where truth is never as simple as life or death.

COSMOS SERIES

BÜŞRA YILMAZ

NEW!

Neva College, with its grand architecture, long-standing legacy, and high walls concealing deep secrets, has managed to preserve its prestigious reputation over the years. For outsiders, it has always been a fascinating world of allure, while within its walls, an invisible order operates; a game known only to the chosen few. With the start of a new school year, a mysterious app called KAOS disrupts the balance, pushing Neva College to the brink of irreversible chaos and exposing long-hidden secrets. Cosmos is a unique novel experience, a "Cinenovel," where the story unfolds like a visual TV series. Readers follow the characters' moods, conflicts, and scenes as if guided by a camera.

Book 1: Melina – “Beehive and the Fly”

Melina is an introverted, extraordinary girl who lives in her own world, afraid of both the past and the future. The only connection she has to Neva College is Arin, the school’s popular student. For years, she has admired him from afar, a quiet fascination that gradually grows into a dangerous obsession. When a mysterious invitation linked to Arin falls into her hands, her innocent admiration takes a dark turn, drawing her into a secret “club” and a series of perilous games.

Book 2: Toprak – “Monsters in the Attic”

After a broadcast on KAOS leaves Uzay missing without a trace, concern spreads among the students. Meanwhile, Melina struggles to process the shocking events she witnessed in the Secret Club, finding herself drawn deeper into Arin’s shadowed world. Toprak feels trapped between his distant brother Arin and their family, burdened by a secret he does not fully understand. As he navigates his relationship with Elsa and the emerging truths behind KAOS, the game becomes eerily real. When the next challenge begins, nothing will ever be the same again.

Book 3: Mete – “Ants and Demons”

Mete’s hardened exterior finally begins to crack as his traumatic childhood and fractured family dynamics come to light. At the same time, the KAOS app, once only a whisper, evolves into a concrete and escalating threat, pushing Neva College toward a breaking point. Meanwhile, Melina continues to unravel the secret surrounding the app, hoping to draw closer to Arin and the dangerous world he inhabits.

At the Edge of the Universe

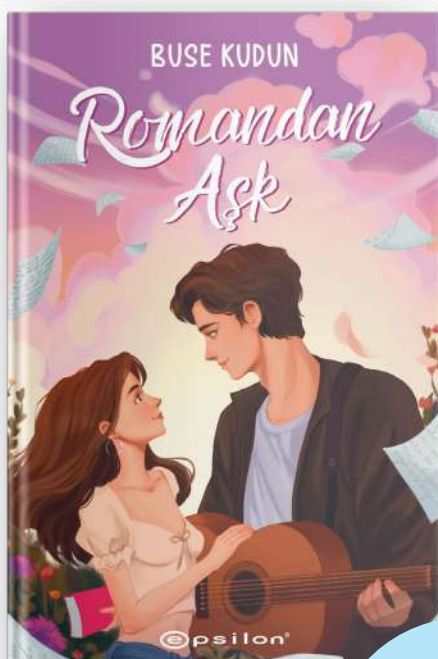

Buse Kudun

After escaping the bleak years of her orphanage life, Luna survives by stealing on the streets of Istanbul—until a luminous ring awakens memories of a lost family and a home she never knew she had. When Afel, a soldier from another universe wearing the same ring, appears in her house, an ancient prophecy begins to unfold: five rings must unite, divine beings must be faced, and a curse waits at the end. Searching for the bearer of the third ring, Luna and Afel are drawn into a medieval island kingdom where witchcraft is forbidden, forced to hide their identities while hunting the silver rings. At the edge of the universe, they must confront not only destiny, but what it truly means to live—and to love.

Love, By the Book

Buse Kudun

Nisan Tan dreams of writing a bestselling romantic comedy, but there's one problem: her own love life is non-existent, and inspiration won't strike on its own. Her editor tells her, "To write, you must first live." Then one night, she meets the mysterious Dinçer, and a daring idea takes shape: he will become the protagonist of her novel. As Nisan carefully plans the "perfect dates" for her story, life refuses to follow the script. Unaware of Nisan's literary project, Dinçer finds himself entangled in a real-life romance brimming with secrets, surprises, and unexpected twists. How long can Nisan keep her muse, and her heart, under control?

Ludus

Birsen Ekim Özen

Humanity once thrived in a world where technology solved every problem: beauty at a glance, adventures at the blink of an eye, and a virtual universe more dazzling than reality itself. Life seemed effortless until the invasion began. Colossal purple UFOs appeared in the skies, unleashing armies of mercurial cannons that turned cities into graveyards and people into ashes. With the outside world reduced to silence and daily survival limited to what can be seen during one hour of television, a group of neighbors trapped inside their building struggle to make sense of the destruction. Ludus is a chilling dystopian tale of dependence, illusion, and survival, asking what remains of humanity when reality itself is stolen.
