It was a beautiful sunny morning in the Happy Children's Town. The children, like always, met in the park where they played games and shared their toys.

The most loved animals in the town were the kangaroos.
The children played games and had jumping races with them.

The children found it very interesting that the kangaroos carried their young in pouches. The children wanted to be like them, so they tied cloth bags around their waists and carried their toys in their bags.

Even if the children forget their toys in the park when they went home, they were not sad.

Because their lost toys were always on their front doorstep the next morning.

They were happy their toys were not lost.

And this is exactly how the Happy Children's Town got its name.
