TUVI'S PATTERNS

That day was Tuvi's very irst day at school.

He was so happy, because he was going to meet new toilet paper rolls. They would become friends, play games, and learn new things together.

bilgiler öğrenecekti.

As he packed his bag, lots of questions danced around in his head.

Would he learn the history of toilet paper? What it was used for? What toilet paper rolls could do when they finished school?

With his questions (and his bag) in hand, he stepped out of the house.

When he reached the school door, Tuvi felt a tiny surprise. The other toilet paper rolls looked just like him, but they had penguin or elephant patterns on them.

Tuvi didn't have a pattern at all.
He was just an ordinary, plain toilet paper roll.

At the call of their principal, Mr. Mahmud Paperson, the whole school lined up. Tuvi tried to find a spot while the other toilet paper rolls gave him strange looks. But there was nowhere left for him except the very end of the line...

"Alright, friends, welcome to Toilet Paper School! Here, you'll learn lots of new things. And don't forget: you have an important duty. Every day, when you leave school, you will drop one sheet of yours into the basket in the yard. Those sheets will set off so our human friends can use them. Now it's time to head to your classrooms. Have a great lesson!"
